The Terjenian-Thomas Assembly Internship
Washington, DC

Founded in 1977, the Internship Program encourages Armenian-American students to become active in the American political process. Since its inception, over 1,000 young adults have come to Washington to enjoy a summer full of informative and eye-opening experiences.

Participants are assisted in finding placements in congressional offices, government agencies, media outlets, think-tanks, and non-governmental organizations. The Congressional Caucus on Armenian Issues, Armenian Embassy, Library of Congress, and Voice of America are a few of the numerous placement opportunities.
The Assembly summer schedule is comprised of the following components: Capital Ideas Program, Lecture Series, various social and cultural events and, of course, the internship itself. The Capital Ideas Program provides interns with face-to-face meetings and sit-down discussions with Members of Congress. The Assembly’s Lecture Series introduces interns to practitioners and policy-makers in Washington, including alumni, affording participants timely insight and perspectives.

For over 40 years since its inception, the Armenian Assembly’s summer internship program has merited acclaim and strong support from the Armenian-American community. Leading benefactors include: Richard Tufenkian Memorial Fund, John Hanessian Scholarship Fund, Armen Astarjian Scholarship Fund, Ohanian Memorial Fund, Ann Hintlian, Ann Nahigian, James and Connie Melikian, Knights of Vartan, Estate of Haig J. Boyadjian, and Estate of George Judge Karabedian (George Kay). In addition, there were generous gifts in memory of former Assembly Board Members Dr. Lionel Galstaun, Peter Kezirian, Jr., and John O’Connor. In 2003, the Armenian Assembly’s summer internship program in Washington, DC was renamed in honor of Aram and Florence Terjenian and Annie Thomas after the announcement of their generous $1 million donation to the program.

DEADLINE TO APPLY - DECEMBER 10TH
In 1999, the Armenian Assembly of America launched its Summer Internship Program in Armenia to encourage college-aged Armenian-American students to experience life in our ancestral homeland. Working and living in Yerevan offers interns a unique perspective on issues and realities in Armenia and promises to change your life.
Based on their interests and experience, interns are placed in a variety of offices which may include government, international or local non-governmental organizations, human rights groups, think tanks, media outlets, and more. In addition to their daily work schedules, interns meet with political, civic, and other leaders to learn about and discuss current affairs. Interns discover both historic and modern-day Armenia and Artsakh during weekend excursions that are educational, rewarding, and fun. Armenian language skills are suggested, but not required.

DEADLINE TO APPLY - JANUARY 10TH
